Woman kidnapped in Hancock found dead on Slidell I-10

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department is working with Louisiana on an alleged kidnapping of a North Carolina woman who was later found dead on I-10 in St. Tammany Parish.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said a positive identification of the dead woman was expected from the St. Tammany Parish Coroner's Office late Wednesday or sometime Thursday. He declined to release a speculative identification pending notification of her family.

A description of the clothing on the body, which included a jacket and sweater with University of Alabama logos, has indicated that the dead woman is the same woman who was reported kidnapped early Monday morning.

The body was partially dismembered and had been struck by several vehicles by the time it was found Monday morning on the westbound side of I-10 near Slidell, about a fifth of a mile west of the interchange of Interstates 10, 12 and 59. There was no identification on the body.

An autopsy at Slidell Memorial Hospital indicated that the woman had died from multiple injuries consistent with being struck by a car and that the injuries had probably occurred only hours before she was found.

Dr. Charles C. Crumpler, a pathologist at the hospital, said she was white; five feet-two inches to five feet-three inches tall; and weighed 120 to 130 pounds. She had brown hair and eyes and type O positive blood.

In addition to the white windbreaker with "University of Alabama Crimson Tide" written in red on the left side and a red knit sweater with "Bama" on the left side, she wore a red bra, red tights, black size 10 Sync brand jeans, red socks, white size seven-and-one-half L.A. Gear brand sneakers and a gold chain with a 1914 gold coin pendant on it.

She was 35, Peterson said. He confirmed that a description of the body published in the Tuesday New Orleans Times-Picayune matched that of the woman reported missing at about 4 a.m. Monday.

The body had been discovered at about 3:40 a.m.

The report came from the kidnapped woman's male companion, who flagged down a ride to Diamondhead after he had been left at the Highway 603-Kiln exit of I-10 by a man who had claimed to be a cab driver.

The male companion, a Washington State resident who was not harmed in the kidnapping, had gone with the woman and another couple to New Orleans for a weekend Mardi Gras celebration, Peterson said.

The four had left Gulfport earlier in the weekend in the same car for a trip to the Mardi Gras celebration in New Orleans, the sheriff said.

According to Peterson, the two couples had become separated in the Bourbon Street area, and the pair involved in the kidnapping incident had flagged down a ride with a black man driving a 1980 or 1981 white Buick Skylark.

The man, who allegedly told them he was a cab driver, gave them a ride to where the vehicle in which they had come from Gulfport had been parked. That vehicle was gone and it was later discovered that the other couple had taken it back to Gulfport, the sheriff said.

The Skylark driver, described to authorities as a black man between 30 and 35 years old, about six feet tall and weighing about 175 pounds, offered the pair a ride to Gulfport.

Peterson said the woman was asleep in the back of the vehicle and her male companion rode in the front with the driver.

The trio stopped in Slidell where the woman's companion gave the driver $20 for gas, the sheriff said.

As they approached the Hwy. 603-Kiln exit, the Skylark driver told the man he was getting tired and the man offered to drive the rest of the way, the sheriff added.

The driver stopped the Skylark at the Hwy. 603 exit then drove off when the man got out of the car to trade seats with him.

The man told investigators he obtained a ride to Diamondhead where he called the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Peterson said Hancock County is investigating the matter as a kidnapping and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Mississippi Highway Patrol, Louisiana State Police are also working on the case in addition to St. Tammany Parish authorities.

Peterson declined to speculate about whether the woman was dead or alive when she was dropped off on the interstate, or if she was alive, whether she could have been killed by a vehicle in reduced visibility caused by severe weather in the area late Sunday night and early Monday morning.

Council delays school board member pick

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council will meet Tuesday to determine who will replace Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board member Reginald Robinson.

The appointment was expected to be made at Wednesday night's meeting but the council recessed until Feb. 23 to allow extra time before making the appointment.

Robinson's term will expire at the end of this month.

The new school board member will serve a five year term, beginning the first Saturday in March.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz says this is a critical appointment for the school system.

"It is critical because the school system is in a state of change with the building program going on, curriculum changes being made and evaluation for accreditation by the state department of education," he said.

"The new school board appointment will help guide this school system toward being one of the state's top notch educational systems," he added.

"The district has the potential to be a top ranked system in the state and we have to continue building a team which realizes the potential is here and will work to make it happen," Frankiewicz added.

In recent matters the board has frequently been plagued by 3-2 votes and Robinson who is up for replacement was the swing vote in many cases.

Because of the high number of 3-2 decisions, the new school board member will significantly affect the balance of power on the board.

Residents reportedly under consideration for the position include Philip Williams, Willie Bradley, Geraldine Lang and Marilyn Williams.

STORM DAMAGE—This vehicle on Amelita Street in Waveland was destroyed early Monday morning as a thunderstorm and strong winds passed through the area. May Lofton said she and her family had just gone to bed when they heard a big noise as a pine tree in her yard snapped and fell, destroying the car parked adjacent to a carport. Three other trees were destroyed in a yard next to the Lofton residence, and nearby the R.D. Russell family of St. Joseph Street reported gathering in a hallway when they heard tornadoic winds Sunday night which removed the furniture from their front porch. On Combell Street a pine tree fell across a powerline forcing the Waveland Fire Department to go to auxiliary power, Russell said with the winds as strong as they were, the people of the neighborhood were fortunate damages were not more severe and that no one was injured. OLG slates parish mission

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis is sponsoring a Parish Mission Sunday through Thursday, Feb. 21-25.

The mission is open to the public, said Father Peter Mockler, pastor. Conducting the mission services will be Father Blaise Czaja, CP, a Passionist Missioner from Houston, Texas.

The mission is conducted with two daily services. The heart of the mission is an evening service each night which includes a sermon preached on a Scriptural theme.

Evening services will begin on Sunday, Feb. 21, at 7 p.m. and will be held each evening at that time until the close of the mission on Feb. 25.

Mass during the mission will be celebrated at 12:05 p.m. each day and will include an extended homily by the missioner.

Father Mockler states, "Mission is a family affair. Please bring the children, particularly your teenagers to the mission services each evening. The services last only one hour, so I am sure that we can all afford this much time during the Lenten Season to devote to our spiritual welfare."

The missioner will hear confessions after each service. He will also be available for spiritual counseling for those who want to share a problem or insight.

Father Mockler concludes, "The Parish Mission goal will be to address spiritual needs and attempts to face current problems and find solutions for them."

"The Passionist Missioner will encourage participants to meet Christ once again and to become more aware of the great opportunities in everyday Christian life. Don't miss this great spiritual encounter. It can change your life for the better," the pastor said.

Fuel overcharge refund period extended

Mississippi farmers will have additional time in which to apply for an oil overcharge refund as the Department of Energy has extended the application deadline for such requests until June 30.

Hugh Arant of Ruleville, president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, said that a late surge of requests for refunds and pressure from congress brought about the extension.

"Applications for refunds are available in all county Farm Bureau offices, and any eligible farmers who have not filed for the refund should take advantage of the deadline extension."

Anyone purchasing oil-based products between August 19, 1973, and Jan. 27, 1981, can apply for a refund. The refund rate will be at least $80 per 100,000 gallons of fuel or equivalent amount of oil-based products used during the control period. However, farmers who purchased the fuel products through a cooperative will not be eligible for a direct refund.

It has been estimated that more than 1.5 billion from oil companies will be placed in the oil overcharge fund.

News from the Capitol City

By Ellen Ann Frenness
Mississippi Reporting
Service

A new state constitution and Gov. Ray Mabus' announcement that he will unveil a revised plan to finance teacher pay raises dominated the news at the Capitol last week.

The Mississippi Senate pushed state voters closer to a November referendum to decide whether to replace the Constitution of 1890 with a new document. The chamber voted 40-7 in favor of a House-passed bill calling for a Nov. 8 referendum.

However, senators altered the House bill in several spots before its passage. The next stop for the constitution bill is back to the House, where representatives could either concur with the Senate changes or agree to negotiate a compromise House-Senate measure.

Despite changes in the bill, Mabus voiced support for the constitution measure's progress at the Capitol so far. A new state constitution had been one of the top items on the new governor's legislative agenda.

The measure calls for the Nov. 8 vote on whether voters want a new constitution. If voters approve the idea, 122 convention delegates would be elected in June 1989 from current House districts. The convention would begin July 25, 1989 and conclude its work by December 1989.

The Senate version of the bill calls for voters to decide between a constitutional convention to replace the 1890 constitution or allowing lawmakers to continue to amend the 1890 document step by step.

The House version calls for an up-or-down vote on a 1989 convention.

Both the Senate and House have rejected a Mabus-backed proposal to allow 20 extra delegates to be appointed to the convention in addition to the 122 elected ones. Supporters of the idea believe the appointments would provide more representation of blacks and women at a convention.

Some black lawmakers have joined conservative whites in opposing a convention. Black critics dislike the lack of assurance of black representation at an 1989 convention, while conservatives fear opening the door to massive change.

Also last week, signs that the state's money picture may be better than expected caused speculation on what the extra money would mean for Mabus' teacher pay raise plan.

Mabus revealed that his staff is reworking its plan to finance $200 million extra in education spending, including teacher pay raises, this week. The revision follows the brighter economic news for state coffers, as well as coolness of legislators to parts of Mabus' budget blueprint released in January.

State budget officials agreed last week that the state can expect $146 million in extra money, with $73 million more than anticipated now expected before June 30, and another $73 million over expectations now probable in the new state fiscal year beginning July 1.

That boosts expected state revenue for the year beginning July 1 from $1.614 billion to $1.687 billion.

That could be good news for Mabus, who wants lawmakers to agree to teacher pay raises averaging $3,700 each and higher appropriations for junior colleges and universities.

Mabus has proposed paying for the extra education expenses through higher-than-predicted revenue collections, cuts to other agencies and freeing rural road funds for spending by issuing bonds for most of the coming year's State Aid Road program. While Mabus already depended on $105 million more in revenue than anticipated, state budget leaders were even more optimistic last week. Their new revenue estimate projects even $46 million more than Mabus allowed for in his financing plan.

On another major topic of 1988, the mandatory county unit system received a hearing last week in the Senate County Affairs Committee. More testimony is expected later. Under the unit system, central administration and purchasing replace the traditional beat system in the state. Under the beat structure, each of a county's supervisors control most of the activity in their districts.

Interest in requiring all 82 counties to convert to the unit system has increased with the arrest of 50 supervisors from 23 counties in the last year in a federal probe of Mississippi county politics.

House

HB 517. Amendment 1. The House rejected 54-63 an amendment that would have prohibited legislators from profiting from governmental bond refunding. The failed provision was targeted to outlaw legislators who are attorneys from profiting from public bond deals authorized under the bill. Compretta, no.

Senate

BH 317. The Senate approved 40-7 a House-passed bill calling for a November statewide referendum to decide whether to call a convention to replace the Mississippi Constitution of 1890. Taylor, yes; Tate, yes.

HB 317. Amendment 1. Part 1. The Senate rejected 33-17 a proposal to allow the governor to appoint 20 delegates to a constitutional convention in addition to the 122 delegates to be elected statewide from each Mississippi House of Representatives district. Supporters of the appointed delegates predicted the appointed delegates could give minorities more representation at the convention. Taylor, no; Tate, yes.

HB 317. Amendment 1. Part 2. The Senate voted 34-15 to rid the constitution bill of any restrictions on the proposed constitutional convention. Right-to-work laws, public employee retirement funds and a balanced budget requirement lost their off-limits status with the vote. Taylor, no.; Tate, yes.

Gore begins national media campaign

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Democratic presidential candidate Al Gore began airing television and radio advertisements nationally and throughout the Mar. 8 "Super Tuesday" primary states this week, making Gore the first presidential candidate ever to launch a national media campaign before the general election.

Gore, the Tennessee senator who bypassed the Iowa caucuses to focus on the 20 Southern and border states with primaries on Super Tuesday, said that he is running a "national campaign with a broad-based national message."

"If you're going duck hunting, you go where the ducks are," Gore said. "If you're hunting delegates, you go where the delegates are." Nearly 1,400 delegates are at stake on Super Tuesday, compared to only 52 delegates from the Iowa caucuses.

"We need a change in America," the Tennessee Senator said. "We need new leadership to negotiate peace through strength and to restore economic growth in this country."

Gore has been collecting the endorsements of top legislators throughout the Super Tuesday primary states, and this week he picked up the endorsement of Kentucky Governor Wallace Wilkinson and Texas Lt. Governor Bill Hobby.

"Al Gore is the candidate with the best chance of recapturing the White House for the Democratic Party," Governor Wilkinson said.

Wilkinson said that Gore understands the need for rural economic development, economic growth, and an expanded federal role in education.

The President's Column

THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO

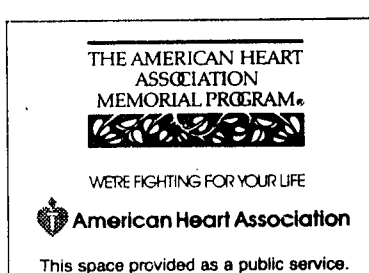

BY RONALD REAGAN

Over these last seven years, maintaining a constructive and friendly relationship with our neighbors to the south in Mexico has been one of the highest priorities of our administration. As we review what has transpired, there is every reason to be pleased.

The leaders of our two nations are aware that good relations and cooperation between us are invaluable to both our peoples. And that is why the meetings between our top leadership have been frequent and our talks at those meetings comprehensive. My recent meeting with President de la Madrid covered a number of issues—from economic concerns, to our mutual commitment to fight drug traffickers, to the security challenges facing the hemisphere.

Mexico is our fourth-largest trading partner and we, correspondingly, are Mexico's largest trading partner. Our commercial ties are strong and of great benefit to people on both sides of the border.

We have worked hard to make it that way. Last November we signed a new Framework Understanding that underscored our special trade and investment relationship. During our meetings in Mazatlan, President de la Madrid and I reaffirmed our commitment to take advantage of every opportunity to strengthen the commercial ties between our peoples.

Mardi Gras 1988 is now past history and many folks are beginning to think about their costume and float designs for next year.

Parading for the area is not over with, as the Waveland Civic Association's annual St. Patrick Day parade will be next month.

I had a great time last Saturday serving as Grand Marshall of Diamondhead's 13th Mardi Gras parade.

The weather on Saturday could not have been more beautiful for a parade, just as it was on Mardi Gras Day.

It was a great honor, and I want to personally thank each of you for the great experience.

I did get to see many people whom I know along the parade route, and I know I missed recognizing some as it is hard to view both sides of the road as the parade moves.

I thought for sure I would not be able to lift my right arm the next day from throwing beads. I was lucky and got by without being too sore.

We will be waiting for next Mardi Gras.

On Saturday, Feb. 27 there will be a special event at Diamondhead involving Terry Thompson, nationally-known cookbook author, cooking school instructor and restaurant consultant.

Thompson will conduct a cooking demonstration, and Feb. 27 will mark the premier of the new Diamondhead cookbook, The Cooking School Cookbook.

The cookbook is edited by Thompson and will contain a collection of recipes from the talented Diamondhead cooks.

The event and cookbook sales will benefit the Diamondhead Academy Building Fund.

As most of you know, Diamondhead Academy is one of the area's newest schools, and the community leaders would like to construct a permanent facility.

For times and events and further information call Mrs. L. Wallace at 255-9100.

A group of local citizens are in the process of reorganizing the Bay-Waveland Jaycees with the help of the Gulfport club.

As many of us can remember, the Jaycees were very active in the area some 20 or so years ago.

Jaycees were involved in many local community projects.

The group meets every Thursday 7:30 p.m. at the Jaycee Hall, 547 St. John Street, Bay St. Louis.

For further information call Jim Ladner at 467-0761.

MEC Mississippi Economic Council The State Chamber of Commerce

The Mississippi Economic Council testified before a House committee on county affairs that the unit system should be the mandatory form of government for counties in Mississippi.

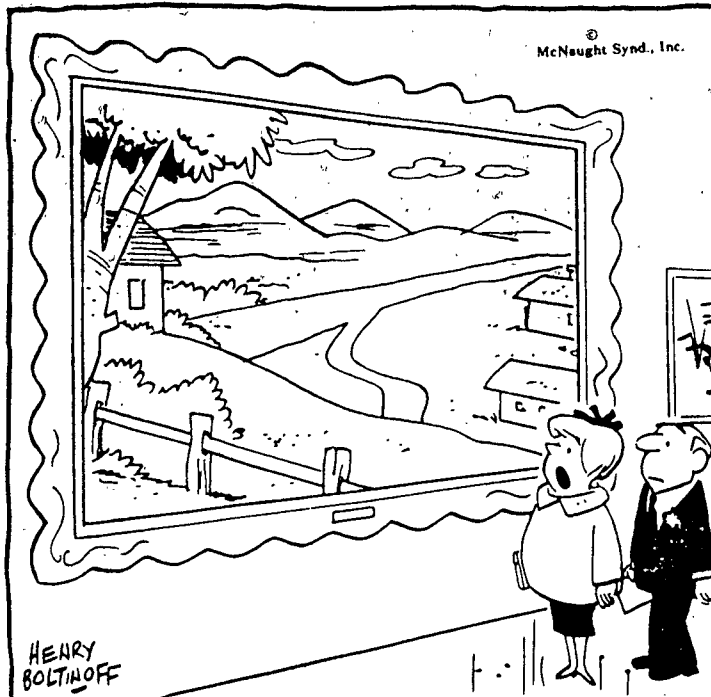

Bob Pittman, president of the Council, cited a series of studies, some conducted by the Legislature, that conclude that the county unit system is the most efficient form of government under which a county can operate.

"Mississippi's prevailing system of county road operations is one of the most expensive systems in the nation. For more than four decades studies of Mississippi county road operations have pointed to the losses of millions of dollars under the inefficient district, or 'beat' system of road operations," said Pittman.

"Under the unit system, road programs would be managed for the benefit of the county as a whole. The board of supervisors would act as the governing body of the county, but road management duties would be handled by a manager. The unit system provides a system of accountability currently lacking under the beat system," he added.

Anyone interested in obtaining additional information on the county unit system should contact the Mississippi Economic Council, P.O. Box 1849, Jackson, MS 39215-1849; telephone (601) 969-0022.

"Do you have this in a smaller size?"

Common Cause endorses mandatory county unit bill

Former Hinds County Supervisor H. Power Hearn has endorsed a bill to reorganize county government and require each county to adopt the county unit system of road and bridge construction and maintenance.

Hearn, 85, who served as a supervisor from 1962 to 1966, is a member of the board of directors of Common Cause/Mississippi.

The citizens' lobbying organization, a longtime supporter of the county unit system, is backing Senate Bill 2431 by Senator Ollie Mohamed of Belzoni. The bill is based on recommendations by Governor Ray Mabus.

Hearn campaigned on a county unit platform over 35 years ago but found at that time little public support for the reform. Under the beat system then in effect in Hinds and other counties, the five supervisors simply "divided the road money five ways, with no regard to the road mileage in each beat," Hearn explained.

However, even then large road and bridge construction projects in Hinds County were handled on a county wide basis, while other counties used the beat system for these large projects as well as for maintenance. The timing is right for major reforms in county government, Hearn believes.

"We know that there are a lot of good supervisors," he said, adding that recent and ongoing FBI investigations of county purchasing practices have alerted the public to the need for modernizing the system.

Greater public awareness of the beat system's inefficiencies has also built pressure for reform. Hearn called the beat system "the biggest waste, with each supervisor having his own crew of men, and a lot of machinery standing idle much of the time."

The unit system would eliminate some staff and save some money, he predicted.

The Governor's proposed legislation would separate the purchasing, receiving, and disbursing functions in road administration, thus providing better accountability to the citizens, according to Common Cause.

However, Hearn pointed out, the public must not expect supervisors to provide services not specifically allowed by law. "Accountability is a two-way street," he added.

REPORT TO MISSISSIPPIANS

RURAL HOSPITALS FACE SERIOUS PROBLEMS

Rural hospitals across the country are struggling financially as the costs of providing health care rise. These hospitals are striving to provide health care to all who ask, regardless of whether a person can pay for the services. The economic strain of such a mission is more than some rural hospitals can bear.

Numerous factors contribute to this crisis situation. Payments for care rendered to Medicare and Medicaid patients is shrinking at the same time the load of charity care patients increases. In turn, the escalating hospital costs make it more and more difficult for the average person to pay their own way, resulting in growing uncollectible accounts. The result is that many hospitals struggle on a daily basis to keep their doors open.

A recent study conducted by the Mississippi Hospital Association showed that almost one-third of the revenue generated from hospital patients in Mississippi was left unpaid or uncollected in the most recent fiscal year. This amount totaled more than $442 million.

The study also showed that of the 123 Mississippi hospitals surveyed, approximately 35 experienced a net loss in operations for 1987. As a result, an estimated 17 hospitals in Mississippi are facing serious financial difficulties that threaten their continued existence.

Rural hospitals are adversely affected by a Medicare and Medicaid payment plan which reimburses rural hospitals at a lower level than their urban counterparts. At the same time, rural hospitals have a smaller patient volume and often have a higher proportion of long, expensive cases to handle.

To compound the problem, efforts to reduce the federal deficit have necessitated cuts in nearly every federally-funded program. The recent Budget Reconciliation Act passed by Congress contains a $2 billion reduction in Medicare for fiscal year 1988 and an additional $3.5 billion reduction for 1989. The largest portion of these reductions will come from payments to hospitals.

The plight of rural hospitals is, indeed, a serious one. During a recent meeting with representatives of the Mississippi Hospital Association in my Washington office, I heard, with great interest, the concerns and problems of rural hospitals. And I pledged my continued support to work for a solution.

We must all realize that to achieve a balanced federal budget for our nation, reductions must be made in spending. These cuts will, and must, affect all government-funded programs. However, we must be careful not to threaten these vital health services as reductions are made.

As a member of the Senate Rural Health Caucus, I have long been concerned with assuring every citizen - rural or urban - with adequate health care when the need arises. I will continue to search for a way to ease the economic problems of rural hospitals so that the vital services they provide will not be curtailed.

Road grader proposes taxpayer savings

Feb. 16, 1988
Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,

I'm at my wits end!

It would be very important for the public to know both sides of the facts as to what has transpired pertaining to road grading and the county's money in the past few months.

It is my understanding that the Sea Coast Echo and the Sun Herald want to keep their readers informed of the true facts.

I set up a meeting with Mr. Ronnie Cuevas, Mr. Robert Peterson, Mr. Michael Ladner and Mr. Bill Johnson at Mr. Johnson's office at the county yard in the Kihl about the last week in December, 1987.

I showed them video films of my equipment in operation grading roads, ditching roads, spreading asphalt, spreading clay gravel and repairing a big mud hole.

Also present at this meeting was Jana Seal and Mr. Omer Haas. All of the filming took place in Hancock County. They all agreed the machine was doing a good job.

I advised them that I could grade county roads better and the roads would hold up longer and that I could do this for less money than the supervisors were spending on road grader operators alone.

This is based on the figures I acquired from Mr. Michael Necaise's office and I do have copies of those figures.

I agreed to grade roads anywhere in the county for $25 per mile (for a test, and if it wasn't better than the work presently being done by the county, then I would do it for free) to prove to them that the roads would be better and hold up longer.

I also advised them that I had been grading roads for the U.S. Forest Service for over three years to government specifications, and to offer further proof, I offered to bring them to a Forest Service district nearby where I presently have a three-year contract in process. They all agreed they would like to see this or visit this district.

Mr. Ronnie Cuevas stated right after the first of the year, when these gentlemen took office, they would give me an opportunity to grade roads in the county to prove the above statements.

Mr. Mike Ladner said he would like to see me start in Shoreline Park. Mr. Robert Peterson said he would like to see what I could do in BaySide Park because of problems they were having with grass on the road.

At their second meeting on Jan. 15, 1988 I was on the agenda to address the board. I was not allowed to even though I was one of the first to ask to be, but they took my proposal under advisement and said they would need a few days to look it over.

I re-applied to be put on the agenda for the next meeting. At that time, I presented the board with my proposal again and withdrew my cost of $25 per mile and offered to grade for a price they might suggest or feel appropriate.

I was again refused the opportunity to prove what I could do. So, then I offered to do the grading for free, no cost or obligation to the county, to prove to the public how much better the roads would be.

Mr. Mike Ladner again suggested they start me in Shoreline Park. Instead of Mr. Ronnie Cuevas allowing a "second" to Mr. Mike Ladner's suggestion or even allowing a comment to be made from the other board members, he asked Mr. Bill Johnson about how the study was progressing and Mr. Johnson replied "he had completed everything south of I-10 but that he'd need more time to finish the study in the whole county."

At that time, I suggested again that I be allowed to begin my grading in Shoreline Park which is south of I-10 and would not interfere with Mr. Johnson's study in the northern part of the county.

Again, Mr. Ronnie Cuevas didn't allow a discussion on the matter, so I stated that I couldn't keep my equipment sitting idle much longer.

I requested an answer as to how long it would take to finish the study. If it could be done in 30 days? Mr. Ronnie Cuevas then asked Mr. Johnson if he could finish in 30 or 60 days. Mr. Johnson's reply was "he would need 60 days."

At every meeting I continued to ask the supervisors and Mr. Johnson, any or all of them, to accompany me to the Forest Service district and examine the roads that had had rain on them several times, a lot of heavy traffic and by that time, snow, so they could realize how good the roads held up after they were graded with my equipment.

I tried to explain to them, the longer the roads stayed in good shape (after they were graded) the less often the roads would have to be graded.

This alone would save the taxpayers a lot of money, and if the roads stayed in good shape for a longer period of time, then the public would have less maintenance cost on their automobiles, use less gas per mile, etc., and was ignored.

I even offered to pay all expenses including eats or drinks and transportation and I still did not get a response.

They have refused me the right to prove to them and the public what I can do to improve the roads in the county and how much money can be saved for the taxpayers and yet, before the study is complete, they advertise for bids to purchase two new motor graders and other equipment amounting to approximately $300,000.

Does this action constitute the best interest for the county and the taxpayers? Are they abiding by the oaths of office?

Mr. Ronnie Cuevas was quoted in the paper as saying—"there was $225,578 spent in the fiscal year of 1986 and 1987 which ended Sept. 30, 1987, on equipment parts and repairs and $76,920 spent in the first three months of the current fiscal year."

These two figures combined total $302,498 spent for equipment parts and repairs in the previous 15 months.

If this is true, and 75 percent of it was spent on equipment utilized for grading roads, such as road graders, pickup trucks and accessories, and the repairs were done properly, this equipment should be in good mechanical operating condition, but yet, Mr. Cuevas wants to sell five of these motor graders after spending this kind of money for parts and repairs.

If it wasn't done properly, and the equipment is not in good mechanical operating condition, I think whoever is responsible for these expenditures should have to reimburse the county at least some of the $302,498 and be dismissed from their job or responsibilities.

It is very important that the taxpayers of Hancock County be made aware of this so they may participate in finding out where the tax dollars are going. The taxpayers should understand the offer I made the board in my proposal that I would furnish all the necessary equipment, operators, fuel, and etc., to grade roads in Hancock County and is included in my price. The county doesn't have to furnish anything.

There wouldn't be any cost and repairs to the taxpayers so they may realize how much money we would be saving and they would know each month how many miles of roads were actually graded and that any roads that were not graded as good or better than the county was grading, would not cost the taxpayers anything.

My question is "why won't the supervisors of Hancock County allow me to prove to the public, free of charge, no cost or obligation to the county or the taxpayers, how much better the roads can be and how much money can be saved?"

It is very important for the taxpayers to know what has transpired so they may be able to see that their supervisors make this a better county for all of us and our children.

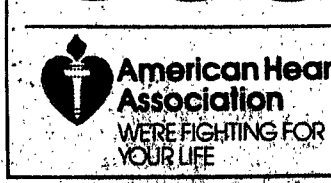

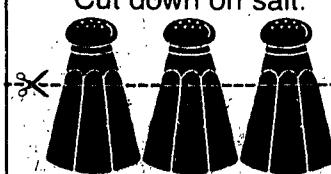

All of the money saved can go towards black toping roads so that we can save more each year as time progresses. This will give us safer and better roads and less tax and maintenance cost on our vehicles and school busses.

I'm also suggesting that the Board of Supervisors have their meetings in the evenings starting at 7 p.m., as being done in neighboring states, in order that the taxpayers be able to participate more in these meetings.

Picayune structure wins top award

Fay Jones and Maurice Jennings, architects of Fayetteville, Ark., have received the first Honor Award in the American Wood Council's 1987 Nonresidential Wood Design Award Program.

Their design of Pinecote at the Crosby Arboretum in Picayune was among six projects selected to receive awards from 117 national entries.

The open-air pavilion was praised by jurors as "a tour de force in expressing the qualities of wood, enormously satisfying in its economy, richness and integrity."

It is the architects' second building to win a top award in the Wood Council's annual program.

A central gathering and reflection point in the 64-acre arboretum, the building reflects the spirit of its natural landscape. Strong vertical supports, built of native pine, repeat the upright form and rhythm of surrounding timbers.

The pavilion is an assembly of small wood pieces fastened together with nails, dowels and metal connectors. Every framing member—each column, beam, brace and connection—is exposed, both inside and out, and all parts are essential for structural stability.

Basically symmetrical, the pavilion is designed on a geometric theme. Even small elements, including lighting and display, are shaped and detailed to reinforce the underlying geometry, building a strong relationship of each part to the whole in an organic unity.

A step-edged pattern outlines the base and defines the roof's outer edges. Accented by a ridge skylight, the steeply pitched roof becomes progressively thinner as it spreads out.

This transition from dense and close to open and fragile is intended to mirror the unfolding or blossoming of botanical growth. An overlapping pattern of wood shingles also recalls such natural surfaces as tree bark and birds' wings.

Instead of applied decoration, the pavilion is ornamented by the play of light and shadow against its structural elements. These changing patterns vary with time and the seasons, enlivening the space while enhancing the poetics of revealed construction in a natural setting.

"The pavilion seizes the landscape, echoing the timbers, poised between land and water," commented the jurors, adding, "Its lyrical spatial qualities are worthy of a cathedral."

Distinguished architects serving on the awards jury included William Tillman Cannady, FAIA, of Cannady, Jackson and Ryan Architects, Houston; Doug Kelbough, AIA, chairman of the Department of Architecture, University of Washington, Seattle; Melanie Taylor, Orr & Taylor Architecture and Gardens, New Haven, Conn.; and Mark Simon, AIA, Centerbrook Architects, Exeter, Conn.

The 1987 Nonresidential Wood Design Award Program was conducted to honor distinctive wood design in both new and remodeled construction. It is the sixth annual awards program sponsored by the American Wood Council, a national association of wood industry and trade organizations founded in 1969 to provide communication and information services.

Art association invites entries in 23rd annual juried exhibit

The 23rd annual juried exhibit of St. Tammany Art Association—also known as "the Summer Show"—will be held June 26 through July 15 at the Delta Regional Primate Research Center in Covington.

Jurors of the event will be Don Marshall, Founding Director of the Contemporary Arts Center in New Orleans; Bess Dawson, professional artist—owner of the Gulf/South Gallery in McComb who also serves as director of the Mississippi Art Colony in Utica; and Ke Francis, a professional artist whose home is in Tupelo.

According to Lyn Hill Hayward, president of the St. Tammany Art Association, professional artists, art dealers and educators in Louisiana and neighboring states have shown increasing interest in the "Summer Show."

"Their support, both as artists and as promoters of the event, have been a major contribution to the continuing success and high professional standards of the event," Haward said.

National FFA Week to be celebrated Feb. 20-27

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—More than 416,000 FFA members will promote FFA, high school agriculture and the food and fiber industry during National FFA Week, Feb. 20-27.

FFA members in 8,000 chapters across the U.S., in the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will organize events and activities to create awareness of and support for high school agriculture and the FFA.

FFA activities and programs will be promoted by FFA members and through public service announcements on the local, state and national levels. This year's theme is "FFA—Agriculture's New Spirit."

High school agriculture classes stress hands-on experience in many diverse areas of agriculture. FFA activities provide leadership development, career training and award incentives for these young people.

Kelli Evans, national FFA president from Hayes Center, Neb., said FFA Week is the chance for members and communities to recognize achievements and activities available through FFA and high school agriculture.

"We're proud of this commitment to young people and agriculture. As FFA members, and students in agriculture classes, we are receiving the business, science and leadership skills we need to prepare for the diverse and challenging careers in agriculture," Evans said.

Each year FFA Week is held during the week of George Washington's birthday (traditional) to recognize his leadership and commitment to American agriculture. The National FFA Center is located on part of Washington's original Mt. Vernon estate near Alexandria, Va.

FFA is a national organization of 416,000 students in 8,000 local chapters preparing for agricultural careers. FFA activities and award programs complement instruction in high school agriculture by giving students practical experience in the application of agricultural skills and knowledge gained in classes. Developing agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship is FFA's major objective.

Awards include seven $300 first-place awards as follows: Miriam Garic Barranger Memorial Award - Craft; Dorothy and Richard Crosby Award - Mixed Media; Elizabeth and Robert Crosby Award - Sculpture; Jane and Harbert Gregory Award - Watercolor Painting; Angele and Jack Swanson Award - Photography; Dorothy and John Severson Award - Oil Painting; and Trudy and Chick Williamson Award - Graphics.

The $500 Maxine and Ford Graham Award will be given to the artist whose work is selected by the Judge as "most outstanding of the show."

Any artist, 18 or older, is eligible—whether professional or non-professional—to submit entries using any medium to the show. Federal housing assistance available for handicapped

Private, nonprofit organizations in Mississippi that provide permanent housing for handicapped individuals are invited to apply for federal assistance under the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act approved by Congress last year.

The act authorizes the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to appropriate $15 million for projects that provide community-based, long-term housing and supportive services for not more than eight handicapped homeless persons.

Organizations may receive up to $200,000 for the acquisition, leasing or rehabilitation of existing structures for the provision of supportive housing and for the operation of such housing. A 100 percent local cash match is required.

Housing may be provided for homeless handicapped individuals or families if the head of the family, or the spouse of the head of the family, is handicapped.

Gov Ray Mabus has designated the Governor's Office of Federal State Programs (FSP) as the state agency to submit request proposals to HUD. Organizations interested in the funding should contact Jan Larsen, director of FSP's Office of Handicapped Service, at 949-2052 by Feb. 19.

The deadline for submission of proposals to FSP is Mar. 7. The state proposal must be submitted to HUD by Mar. 31.

Meridian Junior Auxiliary stages Mardi Gras Ball

New Royalty were crowned on Saturday, Feb. 13 at the 30th Mardi Gras Charity Ball held by the Meridian Junior Auxiliary.

The Frank Cochran Center was transformed into a colorful creation of traditional Mardi Gras festivities.

The theme was depicted at the entrance with a canopy of purple, green, and gold, leading into the interior with a greeting from a giant paper mache jester suspended from the ceiling.

It was carried throughout the Center on the bandstand, at the guest tables, and on the Throne.

The pageant took place at 9:30 p.m. Past royalty were introduced and a final salute was given to the 1987 Royalty: Queen Kathryn Little and King Wink Glover.

The high point of the pageant was the announcement of the 1988 Royalty—Queen Nell Grissom and King Tony Sansone.

Weekly State Crop Report

State soybean farmers have selling options

Mississippi soybean farmers stand a better chance of making money this spring if they will use marketing opportunities to sell 1987 beans in storage.

"We've got good demand and good use of soybeans and soybean products," said Dr. Bob Williams, economist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "Our outlook for 1988 is much better than it was last year or in 1986."

Soybean stocks (beans in storage) have declined about 140 million bushels this year and could continue to fall through summer. Lower soybean stocks could raise market prices, and farmers could take advantage of the opportunity to sell at higher prices.

Williams said farmers who have soybean stocks should consider selling them before the South American bean crop hits the market in April or after it clears the market in June.

"Brazil and Argentina will have the largest crop they've ever had, and this could pressure prices that are typically weak in March," he said. "As we get closer to the (April) harvest of the South American crop, the chance of our farmers getting a price increase is pretty low."

Farmers who won't sell now will have to wait until June for higher prices. November 1988 prices have remained steady at the $6 to $6.50 mark for the past four weeks but they could drop below $6 when the South American beans are marketed.

In other agricultural news, farming activity was sluggish across the state because of cold weather.

Forage producers are checking their fields and gearing up to apply fertilizer. "I did get a report from one wheat farmer that his wheat was looking pretty good," said Michael H. Reed, Neshoba County agent. "The somewhat milder temperatures we've had have helped wheat and ryegrass fields."

Cold weather in Madison County has stopped ryegrass from growing and has burned rye leaves, said county agent Frank Carter.

Hancock County receives $1 million Farmers Home loan

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) says a $1,184,000 loan has been approved by the Farmers Home Administration for construction of a sewer system in Hancock County.

The Senator said the loan will go to the Hancock County Waste Water District One for construction of a central sewage collection system. The district serves 640 rural customers in Hancock County.

The loan is repayable over a 35-year period at 7.75 percent, Farmers Home said.

Senator Cochran, a member of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Agriculture and Rural Development, said, "I am pleased that Farmers Home has approved funding for this construction work in Hancock County."

ASK OCHSNER

Q. I've heard we can cut down the risks of cancer by changing what we eat and drink. Just what is the relationship between diet and cancer? Mr. JBM, Bay St. Louis, Miss.

A. Dr. John S. Bolton an oncologist and co-director of the Ochsner Cancer Institute in New Orleans, says that cancers of the large intestine, cancer of the breast, and perhaps cancer of the prostate can most likely be blamed on the American diet, with its high fat content and low fiber intake.

According to Bolton, dietary fat passes into the large intestine, where bacteria chemically converts some of the fat molecules into cancer-causing substances (carcinogens).

If these carcinogens remain in the intestine for a while, they begin to act on the cells exposed to them.

It also seems plausible that some of the carcinogens produced in the intestine are absorbed and carried to other parts of the body, such as the breasts, where they may accumulate and initiate cancers.

Currently there is no effective means of reducing cancer, but there are measures you can take through diet to lower the risks of cancer: cut down on fats, increase fiber-containing foods, and keep trim.

Dr. Bolton recommends that you cut out a lot of fried foods to reduce your fat intake. If you eat meat, choose leaner cuts and reduce the size of the portion. Always trim off the fat. Poultry without the skin is very nutritious and low in fat, but when deep fried in a batter, as is done in fast food restaurants, you lose the advantage of the leaner poultry. You are also eating a tremendous number of calories and consuming fatty acids that you don't need, he says.

Fiber-containing foods, such as fresh or frozen fruits, vegetables, whole grain cereals and whole grain breads, may reduce your chances of getting cancer. Bolton advises you to choose non-fat dairy products, low-fat salad dressings, and fruit for dessert instead of high fat desserts.

Limit your intake of alcohol because heavy use can increase your risks of cancers of the mouth, larynx, throat, esophagus and stomach. And when added to smoking, the risks are higher.

Keeping trim is also very important because a direct link has been found between cancer and people who are overweight. If you are 40 percent overweight, you have a higher risk of cancer of the uterus and cancer of the breast, because fat cells affect the levels of estrogen in the body. sensible eating habits and regular exercise will help you avoid excessive weight gain, he concludes.

After the feasting comes the fasting—although Lenten rules have been relaxed in recent years, many of us still follow the custom of some meatless days and simpler meals during the Lenten season.

But, with the abundance of seafood and fresh vegetables along the Coast, as well as the tried and true staples of beans and rice and pasta, that isn't too difficult or too hard on anyone, is it?

And "giving up" chocolate and other sweets isn't too difficult either when you may so easily substitute fresh fruit instead.

For instance, if you're one of those who feel that a good jambalaya must have meat in it, along with the shrimp or whatever, try:

EGGPLANT JAMBALAYA

2 medium eggplants, peeled and cut into cubes (an inch or so)
1 onion, chopped
2 celery ribs, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
Dash of thyme to your taste (optional)
Bay leaf
3 cups stock (chicken or beef) or water
1½ cups uncooked rice
Pepper, salt, hot pepper sauce to your taste
5 or 6 green onions, chopped

Saute the onions, garlic and celery in a little oil until soft, then add the rice, stirring so as to coat the grains evenly. Add the stock or water, along with the seasonings, except for the green onions, and bring to a boil.

Add the cubed eggplant, lower the heat and partially cover the pot. Cook over low heat for approximately 30 or 40 minutes. By this time the rice should have absorbed most of the liquid. If the jambalaya starts to dry out, add stock or water a bit at a time. When it's almost ready, stir in the green onions and mix well. (Four to six servings)

(If you're not abstaining from meat, you may want to add a pound of sausage, sliced into rounds, for sausage-eggplant jambalaya. If so, fry off the sausage first, remove and set aside while you saute the vegetables in the drippings, then continue as above).

I use additional garlic usually in this recipe—as in many others—but I like tangy foods—you may prefer more bland dishes, or at least not so peppery or garlicky—but season to your taste, not mine!

In the 1990s blacks earned about $12 a week. Black women had little chance of work other than as domestics. One black woman, however, had a dream. She invested $2 in a company specializing in black cosmetics and parlayed her dream into an empire that made her America's first self-made millionairess.

"Madame C.J. Walker: Two Dollars and a Dream" at 10 p.m., Monday, Feb. 22, on Mississippi ETV, documents the life of Madame Walker and her daughter A'Lelia. County Agent's Notes By Lee Taylor

By LEE TAYLOR

Hancock County dairymen and beef producers should be on the lookout for grass tetany. Keith Shaw, a dairyman at Necaise Crossing, told me of seeing two cows with symptoms of this problem.

Grass tetany is a killer that can sneak into a herd at anytime. It is the result of low magnesium levels in the blood serum of cattle. Cattle grazing fall-seeded small grains such as oats, wheat, rye, and ryegrass are really susceptible to tetany. Their winter forages are poor accumulation of magnesium. However, tetany can show up in permanent pastures when you have a fast, lush growth when the weather warms up.

Tetany is often a problem when there is a cool, wet spell in the spring. A sudden rise of temperature following a cool spell increases the danger of tetany. Fields that have high levels of nitrogen and potash often are low in magnesium.

Tetany is often seen in older females. Cows that have recently calved and are heavily milking are susceptible. The first symptoms may be a dead cow, but earlier symptoms include nervousness, lack of coordination, muscular spasms, staggering, and the animal collapsing and going into convulsions.

You can prevent grass tetany by feeding trace minerals that have high levels of magnesium during high risk periods. Feed plenty of hay before turning cattle onto lush green pasture. Check your cattle daily especially the high milkers. Call the veterinarian immediately if you think a cow has tetany.

Fruit Tree Disease

Some fruit tree diseases can be controlled by spraying with a dormant application of a fungicide before the buds swell. Liquid lime sulphur and Ferbam can be used at this time.

Liquid lime sulphur should not be used if freezing temperatures are expected in 4 hours. Either of these two sprays will help control peach leaf curl.

discuss plans for a Walmart store to be built on US-90 near Waveland Resort Inn. The store is expected to be completed by July 1988 and to open six to eight weeks later, Shaddox said. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Walmart completion expected in July, opening in Fall

BY DENA BISNETTE

Construction of a Walmart store on US-90 in Waveland is expected to be completed this summer.

At a preconstruction conference Tuesday, representatives of Walmart and the general contractor, Harold West Contractors of Laurel, met with city officials as well as subcontractors to discuss building plans for the 66,000 square foot store.

Guy Shaddox Jr., construction manager for Walmart, said the building should be completed in July and the store is expected to open six to eight weeks later, probably right before local schools reopen for the 1988-89 term.

Mike Sellers, project manager for Harold West Construction, said the contract calls for about 180 working days.

The site is on US-90 near the Waveland Resort Inn, where the preconstruction conference was conducted.

Shaddox said the store will employ about 120 people. Those will include members of the store management team, he added.

He said if there are local residents with the proper type of experience available, which may be likely because a T. G. & Y. store closed in Waveland in 1986, all of the Walmart employees except the store manager could be hired locally.

Shaddox told Mayor John Longo Jr., who represented Waveland at the meeting along with City Utilities Superintendent Charlie Bourgeois and Fire Chief David Garcia, that the new store is expected to enhance rather than threaten smaller businesses and that Walmart plans to become involved in community affairs.

He said Walmart, with about 1,300 stores, is currently the nation's third largest retail discount chain and is expected to become the largest in 1994.

Shaddox explained, "We're not here to drive the smaller businesses out. Usually, when we locate in a smaller city, it creates a drawing area that actually enhances local businesses."

"Many of these businesses carry items that Walmart does not have,

and they benefit from the increased commerce."

He added that Walmart participation in community affairs includes support of United Way and the awarding several scholarships each year as well as supporting various community functions.

"We're proud to be coming into Waveland," he said.

Longo said the city would provide any possible assistance in locating the store in Waveland, such as providing the services of Bourgeois and Garcia in locating utilities and fire prevention equipment.

The board of aldermen has already agreed to annex a section of the site that is presently outside Waveland's corporate limits in order to place the entire store building in the city.

He also praised the Walmart policy of civic participation, particularly in the area of education.

"Walmart will be a definite asset to this community, and we'll do whatever we can," Longo said.

In addition, he stated that Walmart is fortunate to be moving into Waveland.

The mayor said low taxes are one of the advantages the city can offer.

"We're assessing at 10 operational mills, which is probably one of the lowest assessments in the country. I'm sure it's lowest in Mississippi," Longo explained.

Walmart is a discount store which according to Shaddox is dedicated to providing the lowest prices possible, even to the extent of charging a competing store's advertised price for a specific item at a customer's request if that price is lower than a Walmart price.

"We buy as cheaply as we can and sell the same way," Shaddox explained.

In addition, Walmart exchanges items whether a customer has a receipt or not, no matter when the item was purchased or at which Walmart location.

"Some people will abuse this, but we at Walmart feel that Americans as a whole are honest people," he explained.

"By doing this, we feel like we are not putting pressure on you to buy something, and if a customer does not feel pressured, he is likely to come back."

Shaddox said construction would begin as soon as a few items had been finalized with subcontractors at Tuesday's preconstruction conference.

He also stated that the conference would have been scheduled for a different date had Walmart officials realized that Mardi Gras is a local holiday.

"We don't have this kind of celebration in other parts of the country," he explained.

Board of supervisors create sandbeach advisory committee

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A group of area residents will serve as an advisory panel on matters involving the sand beach and Beach Boulevard to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

In a recent meeting the supervisors approved a resolution creating the Hancock County Beach Advisory Committee.

The committee will be composed of 16 members, with nine selected by the board of supervisors and two of these to represent beachfront property owners.

These nine members are John Scafide Jr., Ellis Cuevas, Donald Caserta, Gwen Hogan, Millie Bradtman, Buddy Klein, Mary Caillier, Olivia Milner and A.G. Harris.

The remaining seven members are appointed from recommendations by the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

Robert Kane and Lisa Coward were recommended and approved as committee members to represent Bay St. Louis.

Waveland's recommendations for committee members which were also approved included Ray Kidd and Dorothy Sutton.

Clarice Gustin and Janelle Kern were recommended by the chamber of commerce and approved by the supervisors.

Nancy Gex will represent the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

The resolution creating the advisory committee states will "consider and define problems concerning the present and future use of the county sand beach and beach road" in an advisory capacity to the supervisors.

The Master Plan for Shorefront Protection and Utilization, as prepared and approved by the now defunct Sandbeach Technical Advisory Committee, will serve as a general guide and frame work for the committee.

SSC defeats St. John in prep basketball

The SSC Rockchaws defeated St. John in two games at the Coast Coliseum on Tuesday night. The varsity won 85-61 and the Junior Varsity won 53-34.

In the varsity contest the Rocks jumped out to a commanding 41-11 first half score. "We played an excellent all-round first half," said Coach Genin.

"Shabazz and Alexander really ran well together on the break," said Genin.

The Rocks led by Joe Lee and Yasin Shabazz exploded for a 25 point 3rd quarter.

"This was an excellent team effort tonight by our kids, I hope we can play this well on Thursday night against Bay High," stated Genin.

The Rocks were paced by Brian Alexander's 21 points and 11 rebounds. Other scorers were Yasin Shabazz 18 points, 8 assists, Sean Sewell 13 pts. and Joe Lee 12 pts. The Varsity is now 14-10.

In the Junior Varsity game the Rocks clobbered St. John 53-34. A strong fast-break attack and pressure defense gave the Rocks the big win.

The Rocks were led by Hank Winters 15 pts, followed by Cedric Smith with 11 pts. and David Alexander with 10 pts. The JV is now 14-0.

The Rocks close out their regular season at home against Bay High Thursday night beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Bay coach pleased with team season effort

The Bay High Tigers will face the 19th ranked Stone County Tomcats Friday night at 9 a.m. in the District 8-3A South Basketball Tournament in Pass Christian while the Tigerettes will be playing Vancleave Thursday at 6 p.m.

The winner of the No. three seeded Bay High Tigers and No. two Stone County boys will advance to the finals Saturday at 8 p.m. against either No. one seeded Vancleave, No. four Pearl River Central or No. five Pass Christian.

The winner of the Bay High and Vancleave girls contest will face the No. one seeded Pass Christian girls Friday at 7:30 p.m. in a semi-final contest.

The Tigers are coming off three heart-breaking losses from last week to end the regular season at 5-19, while the Tigerettes lost two last week to end the season at 0-22.

The Tigers lost on Tuesday night at home in overtime to St. Martin 82-79, then traveled to Hancock North Central on Wednesday where they rallied from a 15-point deficit to fall short 66-62 and finally a tough fought contest with rival St. Stanislaus ended with a score of 59-52 in SSC's favor.

The Tigerettes two losses came on Tuesday at the hands of St. Martin 46-34 and Wednesday to the highly ranked Hawkettes of Hancock North Central 58-29.

Although the records are not great Coach Michael Ladner is pleased with the effort of his teams.

"Although we have not won many games, I feel both teams have shown great effort, great attitudes and great improvement this year, he said.

"With our lack of experience, I felt like I was coaching all freshman this year, even though they are not freshman by age, but in a basketball sense, they certainly were."

"I think we have matured as basketball teams, boys and girls, and we have laid a foundation to build on.

"However, I am not overlooking the fact that we are very capable of upsetting the Vancleave Lady Bulldogs on Thursday and the 19th ranked Stone County Tomcats on Friday in order to extend our season, we are looking forward to the challenge," Ladner said.

In Thursday's game against St. Stanislaus, Bay High was led by Micah Necaise with 14 points and six rebounds and Benny Tillman with 12 points and seven rebounds.

Cedric Walker contributed greatly with 12 rebounds and nine points.

SSC was led by Joe Lee with 19 points. Yasin Shabazz pumped in 14 points and had seven steals while Brian Alexander and Chad Matthews had 10 points and eight rebounds each.

Against Hancock Wednesday, Bay High was led by Freddie Necaise who had one of his best nights with 22 points and 16 rebounds.

He was assisted by Micah Necaise with 14 points while Benny Tillman and Cedric Walker each had nine. Hancock was paced by Sherwin Ladner with 25 points and seven boards while Larry Acker added 12 and Derek Peterson 11.

In the girls contest Bay High had Tunisa McHay, Patrice Avery and Lawanika Williams each with six points. HNC was led by Stephanie Baehnel with 19 and Daphne Necaise with 10.

On Tuesday against St. Martin Bay High was paced by Micah Necaise with 26 points and four assists, Cedrick Walker with 18 points and nine rebounds, Freddie Necaise had 11 points and 12 boards while Benny Tillman had 11 points and eight rebounds.

St. Martin was led by Duane Dobson with 27 points and nine rebounds while Mickey Dutel and Brian McCarty had 10 each.

The Bay High girls were led by Deborah Deloach with nine points and Tunisa McHay with seven points and six rebounds.

St. Martin was led by Linoa Worrick with 23 points and Paula Hayes with 12 points.

Wildcats dump Utica

Rejuvenated by an earlier win over highly-touted Co-Lin, the Pearl River Wildcats carried their fired-up attitude into Marvin White Coliseum Thursday night and routed the Utica Bulldogs 98-64.

Taking top scoring honors were Wes Dedeaux and Wendell Carter with 21 points each, with Thomas Foster and Adrian McCray firing in 14 and 12 points respectively to lead the River's steamroll.

For the Bulldogs, James Taylor led with 16 points, while Samuel Wilcher and Carl Moore tallied 14 points each in a balanced scoring effort.

The first five minutes of the game was totally PRC, as the 'Cats raced out to a 15-0 lead on numerous Utica turnovers and tough defense by the gold-clad troops.

Utica's first bucket came on a jumper by Taylor with 14.45 left in the first half, but it soon came to pass that it was going to be a long night for the 'Dogs.

Big monster jams by Carter and McCray along with three-pointers by Foster made the game a blowout with barely 10 minutes gone in the game. Coach Pete Georgian substituted frequently in the first half, with plenty of scoring off the bench. The biggest lead came with :33 left in the first half (51-25) on a buzzer-beater by Moore to end the half.

The only noticeable mistakes made by the River in the first half were two back-to-back goaltending calls with under four minutes to go and a technical four on Wendell Carter with 1:20 to go before halftime.

The Wildcats broke open the game even more in the final 20 minutes, with a big 30-9 run in the first 10 minutes of the second half.

James Taylor got hot with a flurry of baskets to close the gap somewhat, along with Carl Moore's three-pointer (Utica's only three-point shot in the game), but it couldn't stop the hot-shooting Wildcats. Two big dunks by Thomas Foster and Jerryl Geathers put the nail in the coffin for good, as the River rolled to its 11th win of the season against eight losses (7-5 in the South division).

Rival Jones Bulldogs were to entertain the Wildcats in Ellisville Tuesday night (Feb. 9).

Creek channel keys

Most bass sportmen fish a few rivers or creeks on occasion—just like they do lakes and reservoirs! Some of the best areas on any creek or river are channel structure. Finding the key to this type of structure could give you an edge on limiting out for they day.

Ken Cook, Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member, considers himself a creek channel expert and this week, he shares a bit of this professional expertise with us.

"As far as channel-type structure, I think of drop-off channel structure as the primary key to good fall and winter fishing because that's the area that baitfish tend to migrate to in winter," Cook emphasizes. "Bass have told me over the years that they like to be around drop-offs and channels instead of concave structure in the fall and winter and into the spring. They use the channel edges as migration routes to move to and from shallow waters. And that's where it pays to fish."

Of course, every rule has an exception. "An exception to the channel key is summertime," Cook continues, "when bass tend to relate to convex structure more often. Then you find them around the edge of a river channel or creek channel. The edges of most channels have a little hump of ridge, and bass will associate with that hump more than they will a drop-off. They also like humps, points and things that stick up from the bottom."

Depth, of course, is another key to any channel fishing situation. "In the wintertime," Cook explains, "I'll be fishing a channel drop-off 40-foot on top and 60-foot in the channel with a jugging spoon. But in the early spring or early fall—or even in the late fall—you'd be fishing a channel edge that would be two feet on the top and dropping to 25 feet in the channel. So here you're fishing a totally different bait because of the depth of the bass."

"Generally when you're fishing channel drop-offs," instructs Cook, "you're fishing something that will come to the edge of the drop-off and jump over the edge of the lip, like a crank bait that stays at six feet deep or a crank bait that runs down to 10 feet. You can cast up to the top of the lip and crank it down until it hits the bottom and dig-dig, dig-dig-dig, until it plunges over the side. Then bang! You get a bite."

"You can throw a spinnerbait up into shallow water around stumps or logs and reel it over by the edge of a stump by a drop-off, and that's when it gets hit."

To help keep your outboard motor running smoothly all season, OMC recommends the use of OMC Engine Tuner. Available in a 13-ounce spray can, OMC Engine Tuner removes gum and varnish build-up and cleans excessive carbon deposits from rings, pistons and ports when sprayed through the carburetor of a running motor. OMC Engine Tuner is available from Johnson and Evinrude dealers.

Jets a good bet to make playoffs

The Mississippi Jets seem to be a good bet to make the playoffs in the Continental Basketball Association, having won six of their last ten games and holding second place in the Eastern Division of the league.

The top four teams in each division are chosen for the playoffs.

The Jets have 12 games left in the regular season, nine on the road and three at home, and show a 17-16 record against the remaining opponents.

The Albany Patroons are securely in first place in the East with 215.5 points. The second-place Jets show 150.5 points followed by Savannah with 133.5 points. Pensacola is in fourth place with 132 points and Topeka fifth with 131.5 points.

Should the Jets maintain their 3.7 points per game average, they are likely to maintain second place and home-court advantage in the first round of the division playoffs.

The playoffs are scheduled to begin March 15 with the first-place team against the fourth-place team and second-place team meeting the third-place finishers. Home court is given to the highest team following the regular season. A best of seven series is played throughout the playoffs.

The first two games are played at the highest team's court, the next two games move to the lower team's court and a third game is played on the lower team's court if necessary. Should there be no winner, the 6th and 7th game, if necessary, will be played on the higher team's court.

The division championship series will begin on April 8th and the league finals tip off on April 16th on the court of the team that finished highest in the regular season.

The Jets remaining schedule is as follows: February 19 at Rapid City; February 24, LaCrosse at home; February 25, at Savannah; February 26 and 27, at Albany; March 1, Pensacola at home; March 2, at Wyoming; March 6 and 7 at Charleston; March 8, Topeka at home; and March 11 and 13 at Pensacola.

Bay-Waveland Flotilla sponsoring public education for boaters

The Bay-Waveland Flotilla No. 33 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary plans a public education class on "Boating Skills and Seamanship."

For six nights starting at 7 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 18, two classes per week will be conducted through March 7 at the Diamondhead Community Center.

Thirteen major subjects will be covered:

—The Safe Way to Boating Enjoyment, Boating Language and Trailing, Boat Handling, Legal Requirements, and Rules of the Road.

Also, Aids to Navigation, Piloting, Marine Machines, Marlinspike Seamanship, Sailing, Weather, Radio Telephone and Locks and Dams.

Completion of the course makes it possible for participants to better enjoy their boating experiences, and to do this in a safe manner, according to Gordon Stone of Waveland, commander.

Also, since the course and text book are strictly in accordance with Coast Guard practices, completion can be the first step toward application for membership in the Coast Guard Auxiliary, Stone added.

The Bay-Waveland Flotilla won the Coast Guard Division award for "Best Accomplishment in Public Training" for 1987.

"We hope to continue this record in 1988," Stone stated.

Those interested should contact Stone at 467-7266 or Harrie Devine, public education officer, at 255-1298.

Marketing students develop bookstore

Bay High's new bookstore, 'Cat's Lair,' a learning project for Marketing II students developed into a Pepsi Learn & Earn Manual through the efforts of project managers Brian Fernandez, Vivian Crosby, Marti Reed, Sandy Monti and Kim Delcuze.

Meanwhile, Mandi Wilson, Chris Michel and Dione Singleton have spent the last six months studying and researching career opportunities in various fields of marketing.

Their manuals involved investigating the selected field, an employment study, and development of a promotion plan to inform elementary students of the field and development of a recruitment campaign to encourage high school students to pursue a career in the selected field.

Vocational Advisory Board conducts first meeting

The Bay Senior High Deca officers served as hostesses for the first meeting of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District's Vocational Advisory Board Jan. 18.

Representatives from the community were present and long-range plans were developed for the districts vocational programs.

Expansion of computer experiences at the high school level topped the list of recommendations.

The board will meet again in May to review this year's program and develop plans for next year.

WILD AMERICA

Birds. Man loves to watch them and hear their songs. Some are admired for their speed, others for their hunting prowess. One is admired for its slowness and unusual physical attributes—including an upside-down brain.

ETV's "Wild America" looks at the American Woodcock. Common throughout the eastern half of the country, it is also known as the "timberdoodle." On "timberdoodles of Moosehorn," airing at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 18, on ETV, Marty Stouffer and the "Wild America" cameras reveal the full life story of the timberdoodle, woodcock or bogsucker.

Bay High Deca captures six medals

The Bay Senior High Deca Chapter sent six students to district competition at USM on Jan. 29.

All six placed in their respective event and three will travel on to Deca's state competition in Jackson March 3-5.

Winners include Michael Kennedy, first, Finance and Credit Marketing; Scott Favre, second, Food Marketing Supervisory Level; Joy Ladner, second, Apparel and Accessory Marketing; Ryan Ladner, fourth, Vehicle and Petroleum Marketing; Marti Reed, sixth, General Marketing; and John Cameron, sixth, food marketing.

The chapter advisor, Mrs. Wendy Rupp, was nominated by her peers to represent District IV, Mississippi Association of Marketing Educators which includes all schools south of Hattiesburg.

She will compete for a state title against five other teachers from around the state.

This honor is given at the State Deca Career Development Conference in Jackson March 3-5.

Members have worked all year preparing manuals for competition at the state level.

Nola Derrickson and Jeff Garth have worked closely with a Louisiana-based company doing extensive research for them.

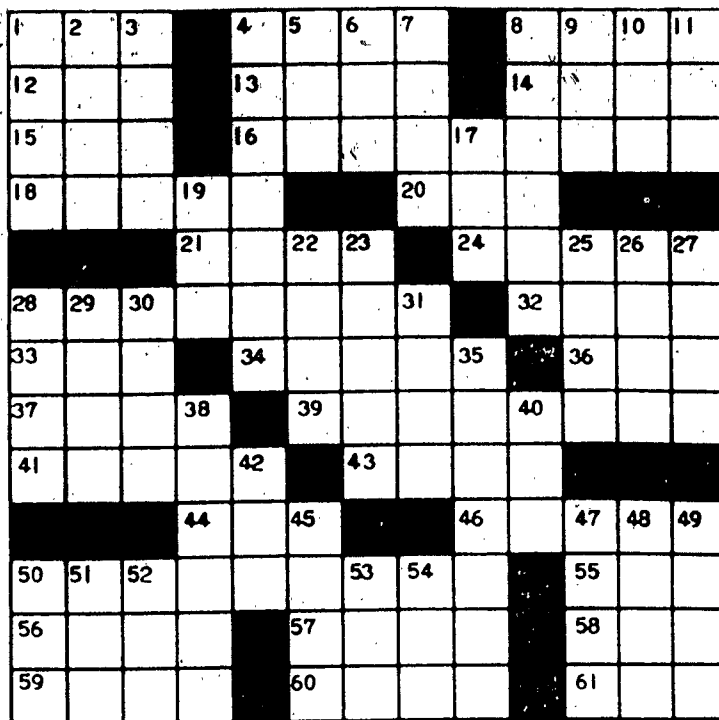

They have made recommendations to the company based upon findings and have written up this activity for a Creative Marketing Research Project.

Hope Necaise and Angela Pursley, project managers for the chapter public relations manual, chose as their public awareness problem a drop out prevention program.

Their theme, "It's Not Cool to Drop Out of School," was used on radio and in newspapers in their coverage of this weeklong event.

Students focused their campaign on junior high school students in the community. The program was outstanding, and the students have been asked to speak to local community groups about their program.

'Afro-American History Month' being observed on USM campus

HATTIESBURG—A series of special events throughout February at the University of Southern Mississippi will emphasize Afro-American History Month, a spokesman said.

"We'd like to have a combination of scholarly activities and entertainment," said Dr. Larry LeFlore, an assistant professor of criminal justice at USM and chairman of the Afro-American History Committee. "We also would like to pick up on some of the current issues."

"They are activities that hopefully will be attractive to the entire community, not just black students, not just black faculty," he said. The festivities include concerts, art exhibits, lectures, poetry readings and forums.

New Orleans museum to feature 'Dr. Seuss

Dr. Suess. Just mentioning the name brings smiles to people's faces.

For the past half-century he has delighted us with books such as The Cat in the Hat, How the Grinch Stole Christmas! and Green Eggs and Ham.

Celebrating these and others of Dr. Seuss' magical books is the upcoming exhibition Dr. Seuss from Then to Now, on display at the New Orleans Museum of Art Feb. 13 to April 10.

The retrospective will contain materials spanning the 60-year career of renowned artist and writer Theodor Geisel, AKA Dr. Seuss.

Geisel (born Theodor Seuss Geisel in 1904) aspired to become a scholar and writer. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Dartmouth College in 1925, followed by a year of study at Oxford, England.

He settled in New York and tried his hand at writing and cartoon drawing for magazines. It was shortly thereafter that he created the now-famous pen name Dr. Seuss.

In the 1930's, Seuss embarked on an advertising career and was particularly well-known for his series of "Quick, Henry! The Flit!" campaigns for insect repellent.

Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday, closed Mondays and holidays.

Admission for the exhibition is $4 for adults, $2 for children and senior citizens. Free Thursdays are suspended during Seuss. Tours for school groups are offered at the cost of $1 per student and $2 per chaperones.

"(The committee's) goal here at USM, without doubt, is to create a positive black presence, to make visible the issues that affect black students, faculty and blacks throughout the community and society," LeFlore added.

Planned events include:
► An Afro-American history exhibit competition throughout the month, featuring entries from any student group. The USM Bookstore also will exhibit black works during the month.

► McComb poet Charlie Braxton will speak at 7 p.m. Feb. 18 in the University Union, Rooms A, B and C.

► A gospel songfest at 7 p.m. Feb. 27 in Bennett Auditorium will feature two USM gospel groups plus church groups from the community.

► Several black USM faculty members will discuss their current research issues in a forum at 7 p.m. Feb. 29 at the Alumni House.

All events are open to the public, with admission free unless otherwise stated.

"It's nothing like the book."

LIONS BAND—Cyndi Lizana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lizana of Pass Christian, has recently been selected to the Mississippi Lions All-State Band. Lizana is a senior honor roll student at Pass Christian High School where she has been feature twirler for the band for the past two years. Lizana has also participated in the Gulf Coast Marching Festival, Gulf Coast Twirling Festival, Junior Miss Pageant, and the 4-H State Fair where she received several awards. Pass schools maintain confidentiality

The Pass Christian Public School District maintains confidential records for students served in special education programs. A special education file is kept by the school district for each student ruled eligible and receiving special education services. Contents of the file include test results and eligibility data, documentation of referral to placement procedures, and the Individual Education Program.

All of a child's records are kept confidential by the school district and are provided to other agencies only in accord with the Family Rights and Privacy Act and the Education of All Handicapped Children Act. No unauthorized person may see a child's records unless parents give their consent in writing. Parents are told before information in their child's folder is to be destroyed and are given the opportunity to get a copy of the information before it is destroyed.

Parents or their representative may see their child's records which relate to referral, identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of a free, appropriate, public education. Parents are allowed to see records no later than 45 days from the time of their request. In most cases copies of records will be provided if parents need them; however, costs for making the copies may be charged.

A listing is kept of those people other than district personnel who see the child's records. Parents who want to know what information is on file about their child and where it is kept, may ask for such a list.

The school district will ask for parents' permission in writing before the first testing is done and before their child's first placement in special education. Parents may give their consent, refuse to give consent, or change their mind and withdraw consent at any time. If parents refuse or withdraw consent, however, the district may ask for a Local Survey Committee meeting to settle the disagreement. This committee is made up of teachers, administrators, counselors and any other personnel who have knowledge of special education services.

Parents of a child who may be evaluated to see if he/she needs special education services or of a child who is now enrolled in a special education program, have many rights. Along with these rights there are responsibilities too—both for parents and for the school system. The school system is responsible for guarding rights and providing an appropriate education for the child. Parents in turn, have the responsibility to keep in touch with the school and to help with their child's education by coming to the conference that is held at least every year to develop or to review/revise the child's Individual Education Program (IEP).

Parents may contact the school at any time about their child. If they are unhappy with their child's education, it is important to tell the school principal or the supervisor of special education services. If parents need further help, they can also contact the State Department of Education or any of the organizations listed in the Parent Information Pamphlet they received before their child was evaluated. But first and foremost, parents should talk to their child's teacher, principal, or other school administrators. Schools are there to help children grow and develop into capable adults, but schools need the help and cooperation of parents too.

Mrs. JoAnn Brewer is the Special Education Program Developer for Pass Christian Public Schools.

Teachers union sponsoring competition

Citizen Bee, a project of the Close Up Foundation, is a competition for high school students in grades nine through 12 which focuses on six subject areas: American history, government, geography, economics, culture and current events.

The competition begins at the local school level. Winners then compete in regional, state and national finals. Prizes at various levels include certificates, U.S. Savings Bonds, and scholarships. Two students from Mississippi who win the state competition will go to Washington, D.C. during the week of June 19-25 to vie for scholarships: first place, $7,000, second place, $5,000 and third place $3,000.

Twenty-two states will be participating; this is the first year for Mississippi.

The state has been divided into three geographic areas for the regional competitions, north, central and south. The competition is being coordinated by a state Citizen Bee Steering Committee.

Maryann Graczyk of Gulfport, president of the Mississippi American Federation of Teachers, a member of the steering committee and one of the sponsors, has been named coordinator for the Southern Region which includes all schools on or below Highway 84.

Graczyk said several meetings were conducted to assure the program's success in the southern part of the state.

All of a child's records are kept confidential by the school district and are provided to other agencies only in accord with the Family Rights and Privacy Act and the Education of All Handicapped Children Act. No unauthorized person may see a child's records unless parents give their consent in writing. Parents are told before information in their child's folder is to be destroyed and are given the opportunity to get a copy of the information before it is destroyed.

Parents or their representative may see their child's records which relate to referral, identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of a free, appropriate, public education. Parents are allowed to see records no later than 45 days from the time of their request. In most cases copies of records will be provided if parents need them; however, costs for making the copies may be charged.

A listing is kept of those people other than district personnel who see the child's records. Parents who want to know what information is on file about their child and where it is kept, may ask for such a list.

The school district will ask for parents' permission in writing before the first testing is done and before their child's first placement in special education. Parents may give their consent, refuse to give consent, or change their mind and
